

SELECTS MANY DIPLOMATS.

Goes to Capitol With Long List—
Talks to Senators.

Washington, June 5.—President Wilson appeared unexpectedly at the president's room at the capitol late today with the biggest list of diplomatic selections he has made since he took office.

It was the president's fifth visit to the halls of congress, but this time he found the door of the "marble room" locked, the senate had adjourned and the sergeant-at-arms was taken by surprise.

"I guess I'll have to get a duplicate key for this door," said the president smilingly, as the sergeant-at-arms hastily dispatched a messenger for the key. Hardly any senators were in the building, but Secretary Tumulty soon sent out a call in quickly from the senate office building.

The individuals about whom the president talked and some of the countries follow:

Thomas Nelson Page, of Virginia, to be ambassador to Italy.

Justice J. W. Gerard of New York, to be ambassador to Spain, when the bill making Madrid an embassy instead of a legation passes, probably within a few weeks.

Col. Thomas P. Birch of New Jersey, to be minister to Persia.

Chas. W. McAlpin secretary of Princeton university, to be minister to the Netherlands.

Jose E. Williams of Virginia, to be minister to Belgium.

Maj. E. J. Hale of North Carolina, to be minister to Costa Rica.

P. A. Stovall of Georgia, to be minister to Switzerland.

Former Gov. Benton McMillin of Tennessee, to be minister to Peru.

Dr. B. L. Jefferson of Colorado, to be minister to a South American country, probably Argentina.

Henry Morgenthau of New York, to be minister probably to Turkey.

Albert Schmedemann of Wisconsin, to be minister to Norway.

Frederick C. Penfield of Pennsylvania, probably ambassador to Austria.

When the president got through talking to the senators he met the newspaper men in the corridor and explained that his visit had been chiefly about diplomatic appointments and that no official list would be made public until word was received from the various foreign governments as to the acceptability of the individuals elected.

Senators James and Stone talked tariff and inquired about the proposed amendment concerning the tobacco industry, but learned that the president had not given full consideration to it yet.

The president left the capitol as inconspicuously as he came. The attendants held an elevator for him, but the president thanked them and declined.

"I guess I'm a good democrat and can walk down," he said with a laugh.

CONFIRMS WOODS.

Senate Acts on His Nomination—
Friends are Pleased.

Washington, June 5.—The senate this afternoon confirmed the nomination of Justice Charles A. Woods of Marion as the successor to Judge Nathan Goff of West Virginia as judge of the fourth circuit.

There was much gratification shown here by the friends of Judge Woods, who have been watching for this action as soon as it was ascertained that the nomination had been favorably acted upon. Ever since a disbarred attorney of South Carolina came to Washington about six weeks ago and attempted to have the senate committee on judiciary reject the nomination, friends of Justice Woods have been eager to see the matter reach a final stage. After the committee made its report in the matter about three weeks ago, there were still further delays caused by the efforts of others to see whether or not an arrangement could not be effected by which Congressman Davis of West Virginia might secure the Woods nomination, and the latter be put into a new place which congress is expected to create at an early date. This did not go through, as today's action indicates, and Justice Woods is now ready to assume his seat on the federal bench, all necessary red tape having been dispensed with.

Senator E. D. Smith and others here who have been interested in the matter expressed their satisfaction at the confirmations this afternoon.

The Toot Code.

Mayor Harrison, of Chicago, was being congratulated at a luncheon on his ordinance forbidding chauffeurs to blow their horns in the crowded business sections of the city.

No Flies Crawl on Our Meats

If this does not appeal to you it should. For we read every day that flies carry more diseases and cause more deaths than most anything on earth.

Our market is purely sanitary, no flies can enter therein. Wouldn't you rather have a half a pound of pure, sweet, clean and tender meat that you can eat than a pound that is not clean and so tough you cannot eat it? Then come to see us and be satisfied.

Having added a market to our grocery business makes it so you only have to buy at one place.

We appreciate your patronage. You need the goods, we need the money; and we guarantee to please you. Yours,

"Chauffeurs think," he said, "that they need only blow their horns and the pedestrian will leap out of the way. Let the chauffeurs drive with care, remembering that the pedestrian's right is supreme."

"Why, if something isn't soon done, the chauffeurs in their arrogance will be getting up a horn code for the pedestrian to learn and obey—a code something like this:

"One toot—Throw a quick back handspring for the sidewalk.

"Two toots—Dive over the car.

"Three toots—Lie down calmly, it is too late to escape, but we will go over you as easily as possible if you keep very still.

"One longa and two short toots—Thrown yourself forward and we will save both your arms.

"One short and two long toots—Throw yourself backward and one leg will be saved.

"Four toots—It's all up with you, but we promise to notify your family."—St. Louis Republic.

CHARLES ASHLEY LOSES LIFE.

Prominent Young Aiken Lawyer
Drowns.—Cut off by the Tide.

Charleston, June 5.—Charles Ashley, a prominent young lawyer of Aiken, visiting on Sullivan's island with his mother at station 28, was drowned yesterday afternoon and despite a vigorous search last night and today the body had not been recovered. He was fishing at the upper end of the island, having taken position on a reef with his dog. It appears that he must have lost sight of the rapidity of the incoming tide and when he determined to return to the beach, instead of taking the circulation route by which he had reached the reef, he attempted to take a short cut and he suddenly found himself in deep water and unable to help himself. His calls for help were mistaken for calls to his dog to follow him.

Mr. Ashley left his boarding house at about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, taking with him a crabbing net and basket, planning to catch a mess of crabs for supper. His pet dog went along with him. Friends in cottages along the beach watched his progress toward Breach Inlet and saw him go out, the tide being low, along a reef that is notably treacherous. He waved his hands to watchers from time to time, and was apparently enjoying the excursion. Meanwhile tide had come in, shutting from sight parts of the sand reef, and when Mr. Ashley discovered that he was being cut off, he turned shoreward. Unfamiliar with the safe course to take, he tried to wade back across intervening waters, and suddenly found himself over his head. Unable to swim and being physically weak, Mr. Ashley called for help, his voice reaching children playing on the beach, but they misunderstood his calls, thinking he was commanding his dog to follow him. The young lawyer disappeared from sight and up to this morning his body had not been found, although diligent search was made by organized parties, who went as far as the Isle of Palms, thinking perhaps that he had succeeded in getting out of the water's grasp, and had continued his outing across Beach inlet. His dog made its way to the shore safely, and later the crab net and basket were found on the beach.

There is deep gloom at the Laird cottage known at Aikenden, at station 28, and in the neighborhood where Mr. Ashley and his widowed mother were staying. Mrs. Ashley is overcome with grief. He was an only son, his brother meeting death sometime ago from fatal burns. Mr. Ashley had visited Sullivan's Island before enjoying a large circle of friends who admired him for his genial disposition and charming manner.

For the past year or two the reef where Mr. Ashley met his death has been considered dangerous by those using it for bass fishing. The shifting sands in this section have changed the character of the beach, and now a long reef runs off from the shore that is covered by water when tide is high, although any one familiar with the lay of the land can make his way back safely to the shore by following the course of the reef carefully. However, Mr. Ashley did not take this fact into account, and came straight in from where he was stationed when he found himself cut off by the rising waters. He was not a good swimmer. He was several hundred yards from his cottage when the accident happened, but in sight from the shore, his movements being followed through opera glasses.

Mr. Ashley was in his early '30s and unmarried. Deep sympathy is extended to his bereaved mother.

Rather a Long Wait.

Lady—I want my children's photos taken. How much do you charge?

Photographer—Seven and six for half-a-dozen.

Lady—Half-a-dozen! but I only have two. I had better call again.—London Mail.
